

Cookie Policy

What are cookies?

Cookies are small files that your browser saves on your computer or mobile device when visiting our website. Cookies allow our website to recognize your computer the next time you visit us, in order to offer you a personalized experience when moving through it. Cookies on our website do not store your username or password and are not intended exclusively for advertising. Information such as your name or e-mail address will not be saved – the website cannot access your personal information and files on your computer.

Cookie types

➤ What are the categories of cookies by function?

- Technical cookies - the only category of required cookies and are always active. Those are essential for the functioning of the website and cannot be excluded. You can set your browser to block these cookies or send a warning about them, but in this case some parts of the website will not work. Those cookies do not store any information that might identify you.
- Statistical cookies- (can be excluded) allow the record of visiting and traffic sources for the purpose of measuring and improving the effectiveness of the website.
- Marketing cookies- (can be excluded) are used to track users across websites and display targeted ads. This website does not use marketing cookies.
- Functional cookies - (can be excluded) enable the website to provide enhanced functionality and personalization.

➤ What are the categories of cookies by source?

- First-party cookies- come from the website that you are visiting and can be permanent or temporary. With these cookies, the website can store data that will be used again the next time you visit the website.
- Third-party cookies- come from other websites, which are on the website you are visiting. With these cookies, other websites can monitor Internet usage on the site you view for marketing purposes.

➤ What are the categories of cookies by duration?

- Permanent cookies - (persistent or saved cookies) remain on your computer after you close Internet browser. They allow websites to store information, such as your login name and password, language settings, or cookie preferences, so that you don't have to re-enter them each time you visit. Permanent cookies can remain on your computer or mobile device for days, months, or even years.
- Temporary cookies - (session cookies) are deleted when you close your Internet browser. Through them, websites store temporary data, such as the last few pages you have opened on the website you visit or items in the shopping basket if you are on an Internet site specializing in online sales.

What cookies do we use on our site and how do we manage them?

The cookies we use on this site are strictly technical cookies (required cookies) necessary for the functioning of our website. We cannot disable them, nor do we need your consent to use them.

It is possible to stop your browser from accepting cookies at all by changing the cookie settings in your browser. You can usually find these settings in the “options” or “preferences” menu of your browser. If you stop your browser from accepting cookies at all (including technical cookies), some features on our site may not work as you expect.
